Miller Assures Morality Cleanup

CAMPAIGNING CONGRESSMAN — Chanting, cheering crowds greeted Rep. William Miller, Republican Vice Presidential candidate, when he spoke at the University Theater last night. The crowd overflowed the theater and many stood outside the building listening to Mr. Miller's speech over loudspeakers. Mr. Miller, making a last campaign tour before the Tuesday election, joined Gov. Tim Babcock and other GOP leaders for the Missoula rally.

By CARL RIECKMANN
Kaimin Associate Editor

Republican Vice - Presidential nominee William Miller last night assailed corruption in the present administration and assured a new governmental look of morality in January.

"If Barry Goldwater is elected, corruption will be cleaned out of Washington and there will be an era of new respectability," he said.

Speaking to an overflow crowd of nearly 1,200 persons in the University Theater, the representative from New York pointed to Bobby Baker, Billie Sol Estes and Walter Jenkins and asked how the Democrats could ask the American people to "let us continue."

Extremist Groups

Turning to the charge of extremism in the Republican Party, he said that four years ago Pres. Johnson repudiated the Ku Klux Klan and the Americans for Democratic Action as extremist groups. Now Pres. Johnson selects for his running mate "the founder of the ADA."

Rep. Miller explained that Hubert Humphrey was co-vice chairman with Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, of the ADA for 14 years and called attention to a rumor that Reuther would be named the new Secretary of Labor in payment for his support.

Tongue in cheek, the vice-presidential nominee suggested that perhaps the American people could expect George Meany as head of the "small business bureau," Bobby Baker as Secretary of the Treasury and Billy Sol Estes as Secretary of Agriculture.

Mr. Miller accused the administration of political maneuvers with taxpayer's dollars and of having no policy on key foreign policy issues.

Buy Votes With Taxes

Two months before the election, Pres. Johnson ramrodded through Congress his antipoverty program "in the hope that he could buy the peoples' votes with their own tax money," he charged.

Sen. Goldwater is not on record as having voted for the Social Security Bill of 1964 because Pres. Johnson knew he could not vote for it with the administration medicare amendment which he opposed, he emphasized. He declared that the President deprived millions of persons extra benefits with this amendment just to keep Sen. Goldwater from endorsing a social security program he favored.

Rep. Miller pointed to the administration's failure to assert a strong American position on the key world trouble spots.

War in Viet Nam

"The war in South Viet Nam is never going to be ended and never going to be won, until Barry Goldwater is President of the United States," he said.

He bemoaned the cancerous effect Communist Cuba is having on the Western Hemisphere and blamed the administration for not having assured a Bay of Pigs victory.

He promised a Goldwater administration would impose "a stiff economic blockade" on Cuba and "immediately recognize a Cuban government in exile."

And, he asserted, the new administration would tell U.S. allies: "If you want to trade with Cuba, you don't trade with us."

The Democrats have hoped to tarnish Mr. Goldwater's image through the spread of fear and confusion, he charged.

No president would push the button that would bring destruction to all of America's hopes, he assured.

Commies Push Button

"If a button is ever pushed which starts a nuclear war, it will be pushed by a Communist, not an American," he said.

The Republicans believe that "only the strong will remain free." America must let the Communists know that, if they start a war, they won't win, Rep. Miller stated.

The Congressman, introduced by Gov. Tim Babcock and met by a host of Republican candidates for state offices, praised Gov. Babcock's work and promised to fight Federal government encroachment of state rights by "some bureaucrat who's never been in Montana."

Arriving by plane last night, Rep. Miller was met by scattered crowds of mixed sentiment at the airport and the University Theater. Intermingled between "Go Goldwater" and "We Want Miller" signs were "Ban the Bomb" and a "We love you anyway" placards.

Applications Available for Positions

Kaimin, Sentinel Report Progress to Pub Board

Sentinel and Kaimin progress reports and a Kaimin financial report were given yesterday at Publications Board.

Emily Melton, Kaimin business manager, reported a deficit for the newspaper this month. This is because of a shortage of ad salesmen and orientation week issue of the Kaimin which contained no advertising.

Forum to Hear Peace Corpsman

Tim Burr, Peace Corps recruiter, will speak tomorrow at Montana Forum about his experiences in Nigeria.

He will also give his views as to whether the Peace Corps is getting too large and losing its personal touch.

Forum meets at noon in Territorial Room 5.

Dan Foley, Kaimin editor, says that the paper is now operating at two-thirds its maximum capacity. According to Foley the staff is capable of producing more if there is enough advertising.

Within the next several weeks, Foley hopes that the paper can be put out on an offset press. This would mean better reproduction of photographs. He also hopes that a color section can be produced for the Christmas edition of the Kaimin.

According to Foley additions to the Kaimin are more Associated Press wire stories and Gridiron Guesswork.

Mignon Redfield, Sentinel editor, announced that a photographic contract will be signed with Catlin's today. A publisher will be selected next week.

Jack Curriero will be Publications Board's recommendation to Central Board for Kaimin photographer.

Applications for Sentinel associate editor and Venture art editor will be due 5 p.m. Tuesday at the Lodge desk. Applicants will be interviewed at the Publications Board meeting Wednesday.

The Sentinel associate editor is paid $10 a month and will be in charge of the sports section.

Halloween Dance Friday in Lodge

A Halloween Dance will be presented by the Student Union Program Council Friday, Oct. 30 in the College Inn from 9-12 p.m.

The Balboans will provide live dance music.

Featured event of the evening will be an apple-bobbing contest. The winners will be given free soft drinks.

Johns Unfolds Ten-Year Building Plan

By JIM CRANE
Kaimin Managing Editor

The ten-year campus expansion plan for MSU is the smallest it can be and still accommodate the expected 1975 enrollment of 10,000 plus, Pres. Robert Johns said last night.

"The plan is not a big one," Pres. Johns said. "It is a minimal plan."

"This isn't a dream," he continued, "This is for people who are already alive. It is for your brothers and sisters."

He said the MSU students in 1975 will not be studying under conditions as we know them.

Students will have 7 a.m.

classes, 8 p.m. classes and Saturday classes.

The extended school days will be necessary because the campus will be overcrowded in spite of the expansion program, he said.

Pres. Johns explained that the planned expansion has become necessary because "the last bond issue for academic buildings started before most of you were in the first grade."

The President also had some harsh words for some existing campus buildings. "Main Hall," he said, "remains intact in much the same condition as it was in 1900." He characterized the Field House as an "outstanding architect's abortion."

"Newton's first law is going to get" the Math-Science and Geology Buildings, adding that both buildings were "condemned before most of you were born."

"Our current architecture could be best explained as contemporary American penitentiary," he said.

Pres. Johns explained that Mt. Sentinel, the river, Arthur and Beckwith Avenues form the feasible boundaries for campus expansion. After these limits have been reached, buildings will have to be built up the side of Mt. Sentinel.

Dornblaser Field will be relocated at Fort Missoula because the space it takes is more valuable for academic and residential buildings, he said.

Contracts for the first of five

"high-rise" buildings will be let in January, Pres. Johns said. The first such building will be an 11-story coeducational dormitory on the site of the present Synadelphic house.

The cost of the project is hard to estimate, he said. It will probably be "between $15 and $50 million." Two-thirds of the cost of the project will be self-liquidating.

A question was asked whether much of the cost of the building and expansion program would be supported by the students.

Pres. Johns said he is opposed to the use of student money for the construction of classroom buildings except as a "last ditch stand, and I think we're awfully close to the last ditch."

Students Elect LBJ, Tim in Mock Vote

Pres. Lyndon B. Johnson scored a decisive victory over Sen. Barry Goldwater in the MSU student mock elections yesterday.

Pres. Johnson won 515 to Sen. Goldwater's 420, and carried 55 per cent of the student vote while Goldwater carried 42.5 per cent. The other votes were scattered among minor candidates or left blank.

Almost 1,000 students voted in the elections which were run by the Young Democrats and the Young Republicans.

In the state contests, Mike Mansfield swamped his Republican opponent Alex Blewett 663 votes to 297.

Republican Gov. Tim Babcock polled 512 votes to Democrat Roland Renne's 453. Charles R. Lee, pro-legalized gambling candidate, got 14 write-in votes for governor.

Republican Wayne Montgomery beat incumbent Rep. Arnold Olsen in the race for Western District Congressman, 495 to 457. Ted James beat R. V. Bottomly 473 to 348.

A few votes were cast for the Socialist candidate, Clifton DeBerry; National States' Rights candidate, John Kasper, and Prohibition candidate Earle Harold Munn Sr. Others receiving write-in votes were the American Nationalist candidate for President and the Theocratic Presidential candidate, Bishop Homer Thomlinson.

MSU students have voted predominately Republican in past mock elections.

Party Platforms

Democrat

By RALPH P. BENNETT
President, Young Democrats

The program of the Democratic Party for the future is to make the national purpose the human purpose of us all, and to fulfill our individual needs. We believe a time has come for all of us to understand and respect one another, and to seek the unity of spirit and purpose from which our future greatness must grow.

Control of the use of nuclear weapons must remain solely with the highest elected official in the country—the President of the United States. Through our policy of never negotiating from fear but never fearing to negotiate, we are slowly but surely approaching the point where effective international agreements providing for inspection and control can begin to lift the crushing burden of nuclear armaments off the backs of the people of the world. Peace should be the first concern of all governments. At this time the preservation of peace requires the strength to wage war and the wisdom to avoid it. The search for peace requires the utmost intelligence, the clearest vision and a very strong sense of reality.

The Democratic Party cannot tolerate violence or lawlessness anywhere in our land, North or South. We must expose, wherever it exists, the advocacy of hatred which creates the clear and present danger of violence. We condemn extremism, whether from the Right or Left, including the extreme tactics of such organizations as the Communist Party, the Ku Klux Klan and the John Birch Society. We know what violence and hatred can do. The United States has seen the tragic consequences of misguided zeal and twisted logic.

In 44 months of uninterrupted expansion under Pres. Kennedy and Pres. Johnson, we have achieved the longest and strongest peacetime prosperity in modern history. The Democratic Party will carry the War on Poverty forward as a total war against the causes of human want.

The Social Security Program, initiated and developed under the leadership of the Democratic Party, must insure that those who have contributed to the system shall share in the steady increase in our standard of living by adjusting benefit levels.

We affirm our opposition to compulsory open shop laws which usually masquerade under the false labels of "Right to Work," and pledge vigorous opposition to any such legislation. We support the principles of collective bargaining in employer-employee relationship. The industrial democracy of free, private collective bargaining and the security of American trade unions must be strengthened by repealing Section 14 of the Taft-Hartley Act.

We support sound programs to ensure every child the kind and quality of education he needs to develop his individual abilities for his own greatest benefit and that of society. We deplore and oppose the present Republican efforts to shift the cost of education to the local property owner and the organized campaign to turn taxpayers against the schools. We believe education is an investment we can and must afford. Regardless of family financial status, education should be open to every boy and girl in America up to the highest level he or she can master.

Agriculture, being Montana's biggest industry should have the attention it deserves from the Montana Department of Agriculture. We believe Montana farmers must have full parity of income. We favor adequate credit facilities to encourage and preserve the family type farm in Montana. We feel that modernization of freight rates would bolster the state of agricultural economy.

The variety of our people is the source of our strength and ought not to be a cause of disunity or discord. The rights of all citizens must be protected and all the laws of our land obeyed if America is to be safe for democracy. The Civil Rights Act of 1964 deserves and requires full observance by every American including fair and effective enforcement. Its purpose is not to divide, but to end division, not to curtail opportunities but to increase opportunities.

Republican

By BILL WALLACE

The Republican Party in 1964 offers a program to the American people which guarantees efforts to maintain peace through preparedness, fiscal integrity, morality in government, a balance of federal and state power and the worth of the individual citizen. To that end we offer for the Presidency a man who believes strongly in these basic guarantees, an outspoken, principled United States senator, Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona.

Two issues dominate the 1964 campaign: the nation's defense program and the question of morality in government.

We insist that the best method this nation has to defend itself against encroaching Communism is to be well-armed for any attack—overt or covert—which may be brought against this nation from abroad or from within.

Eternal vigilance by men is our foremost defense. To achieve that goal we propose a defense system, which relieves not only on missile technology but also on effective retaliatory measures geared to quelling quickly enemy attack. We believe that more than Minuteman missiles are necessary for that goal, that effective delivery vehicles are necessary for retaliation.

A program of increasingly more accurate and economical bombers is part of this defense effort. This does not mean that we or our presidential candidate believes in an impulsive striking out an enemy to involve the world in a third world war. It means that programs in existence at the present time, initiated both in the Eisenhower and Kennedy-Johnson administrations, should be maintained, not phased out. We believe in relying not only on machines, but men, for our defense. As to control of nuclear weapons we believe in the present method, including the control and discretion our NATO commanders exercise. Intimations of irrational use of nuclear weapons by the present administration concerning our candidate are misleading and promote emotional outbursts which obscure the issue, to no one's advantage. Employing our armed forces in brush fire wars abroad requires explaining to the American public our purpose and intent, as well as outcome, so far as the national security permits. We deplore the present method of evading the public on our commitment in South Viet Nam. We feel that strong measures are needed in combating Communist infiltration and that the American people should KNOW what it is we are doing there.

Morality in government has become an issue in this campaign because there is substantial doubt as to the integrity of office holders at the highest level of government. We feel strongly that the moral qualities of our highest leaders must be beyond reproach in order for Americans to enjoy a standard which they can fully support and emulate. An outstanding example at the top where Americans place their respect is one answer to these domestic goals. The Billy Sol Estes, Bobby Baker and Walter Jenkins affairs fail to increase such respect. We insist on higher standards in public office and ask for clarification, not evasion, of the affairs mentioned.

Fiscal integrity means spending what we have on economically budgeted programs. We advocate a tax reduction at 5 per cent a year for five years, predicated on substantial decreases in government spending. Here we propose the individual do what he can for himself, that the states do as much they can within themselves for the benefit of their citizens and that the responsibility for welfare and education be left largely at local levels relative to local problems. Fiscal sanity should prevail, meaning deficit spending must be halted.

Our party believes that all men should be given an equal opportunity for education and employment. We believe that the advantages denied men on the basis of race, religion or color can only be given them through a change in heart in those denying, not by force which can only expand the

Poll Statistics Are Clarified

Prof. Thomas Payne has submitted the following clarification to the Kaimin with respect to the story in Tuesday's paper regarding the results of the poll conducted by students in his Political Parties course:

"Tuesday's Kaimin, in reporting the results of the poll of the Missoula urban area conducted by students in my Political Parties course, failed to include in its story some of the warnings which I indicated to the reporter must be taken into account in interpreting statistical data. A statement regarding the standard error in statistical inference for a sample of the size used was distorted by the omission of a critical word.

"I should like then to emphasize again as I did in my interview with your reporter that the poll was conducted primarily as an experiment to show the students the problems involved in public opinion polling and the difficulties in making precise predictions on the basis of relatively small samples. I wish to stress further that it was not the intention of the class to pose as an infallible oracle but rather to report our findings. After the election results are in, we plan to compare our poll results with where our errors in technique lay.

"When a sample of the size we employed is used, the standard error is approximately 4 per cent. Applying this to our results would mean for example that Johnson's vote would fall within a range of 59.5 to 67.5 in two out of three instances and within a range of 55.5-71.5 on 19 out of 20 occasions. We are obviously dealing with probabilities in statistical inference based on the assumption that there is some relationship between our sample and the voting population which it represents."

The immigration laws must be revised to permit families to be reunited, to welcome the persecuted and oppressed and to eliminate discriminating provisions.

We the Young Democrats invite all to join us who believe that narrow partisanship takes too small account of the size of our task, the penalties for failure and the boundless rewards to all our people for success.

(Continued from column 2) problem. We oppose bussing of students to create racial balance for this reason. We abhor violence and prejudice and programs which lead to them. If changes are desirable, we feel they should be made at the cost of deliberation and practical compromise, not at the cost of violence and hatred.

Space does not permit specific programs or answers to many complex questions. In general we feel that the individual should be considered in determining government action and that increased centralization of power in Washington is not the answer. We are dedicated in all our programs to remembering the forgotten American man.

Campus Spreads as U Expands

Sketch Showing Long Range Development

By JIM CRANE

Kaimin Managing Editor

The next ten years will be critical ones for Montana State University.

Experts figure that the projected enrollment of 9,000 by 1975 is too conservative. Physically, the campus and its buildings as they stand could not accommodate the expected hordes of college hopefuls.

Realizing the problems confronting the expanding university system, Pres. Robert Johns has formulated his 10-year campus planning program.

In early March, Pres. Johns retained the firm of Sasaki, Walker, Lackey Associates, Inc., to draw up a preliminary 10-year campus plan.

Pres. Johns says the San Francisco company is well qualified to draw up the expansion plans, having completed similar projects at the University of Alaska, Brown, University of Colorado, Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the University of Miami. Representatives of the company have been on campus about twice a month since March.

Following is part of the firm's booklet of plans summarizing the expectations, objectives, policies, projected physical plant needs and plans which have evolved during the course of the study.

New Buildings

The proposal includes plans for 19 buildings and additions to existing buildings by 1975.

Planners hope by 1970 construction will have begun on a Library, a Student Union Building, a Biological Science and Math Building, a U.S. Forest Service Research Lab (non-University), health and physical education and ROTC facilities, a dormitory and physical plant shops and warehouse.

Between 1970 and 1975 construction will have begun on an Administration Building, an addition to the proposed Library Building, a second building for biological sciences, an addition to the Music Building, a General Classroom Building, a new gymnasium, more residence halls, additions to the heating plant and another physical plant.

1964 Campus Status

Although the greatest amount of campus space is allocated to instructional facilities, a significant amount of space in buildings is reserved for non-instructional facilities.

The Sasaki firm analysis showed 55 per cent of the space in non-residential buildings is assigned to instructional activity. Fourteen per cent is assigned to administrative functions and faculty offices, six per cent is assigned to research and 25 per cent is devoted to student services, plant operation, institutional services, public service and auxiliary enterprises.

Only 29 of the 34 academic buildings on the campus are considered permanent. Five buildings are designated as obsolete and are scheduled to be removed.

Residence halls accommodate 1,490 students, approximately 33 per cent of the student body. Burley Miller Hall, to be completed by Winter Quarter, will raise the total number of accommodations to 1,808.

The campus now comprises 181 acres. Part of this lies on Mount Sentinel and is considered unsuitable for building.

Academic and residential buildings are scattered sparsely over the 120 acres of the campus.

The report sets the Clark Fork River, Arthur Avenue, Beckwith Avenue and the toe of the slope of Mt. Sentinel as the practical limits for campus expansion.

The Craighead Apartments area and the University Golf Course are available for expansion of research facilities, married student housing and a proposed "fraternity row."

Expansion on the present campus demands the removal of Dornblaser Field. A stadium or field for intercollegiate athletics would be built on University property at Fort Missoula, according to the plan.

Future University Function

As the enrollment in the University grows, the University's function expands accordingly, the report states. Indications point to a great increase in enrollment.

The University System's figures indicate MSU can expect 8,953 full-time students by the fall of 1975. Many experts, among them Ronald B. Thompson, Executive Dean of Special Services at Ohio State University, think that such projections underestimate the probable enrollment because they fail to consider the rising percentage of college-bound high school graduates. These experts estimate more than 10,000 students in 1975.

The booklet states, "As the University's resources and facilities expand to serve increasing enrollment, it anticipates a correspondingly broadened scope of educational, cultural, scientific service to the community and to the State."

The 10-Year Plan

The campus would be divided into two units—the main campus and what the planners have termed the south campus. The function of the main campus will remain primarily for classrooms, administration and single student residences.

The south campus will accommodate married student housing, research facilities, the golf course and have space for a future fraternity row. The baseball park would continue to serve until facilities could be constructed at Fort Missoula.

The Program Defined

1. The campus will become a pedestrian preserve. Sidewalks will be wide enough for access to maintenance and emergency vehicles. Parking spaces will be available on the periphery of the campus.

2. The oval would be retained although increasing student traffice may necessitate a system of sidewalks across the oval.

3. The southeast corner of the campus, presently occupied by the married student pre-fab housing, would be the center of a science complex. The area around the present Liberal Arts Building and Library would be the center for liberal arts and the social sciences.

4. The Dornblaser Field area would become a major development site. As shown in the planners' sketch above, the Library and the Student Union Building would face each other in the area now serving as a parking lot behind the Administration Building.

A new administration building would be situated near the north goal line of Dornblaser Field. A dormitory complex would be constructed south of the football field and east of the Natural Science Building.

5. The Clover Bowl and the soccer practice field will be reserved as fields for intramural athletics and recreation.

6. Parking areas near the Field House would connect with the Madison Street Bridge and with Fifth Street.

7. The present landscaping scheme will be retained in the areas to be developed.
